XIII-MODELLING RICH PEOPLE'S THINKING

At any moment you can choose to adopt new beliefs, you can choose to think and act like wealthy individuals do, and consequently manifest the same results that they do.

Start thinking in ways that support you, instead of in ways that don't!

First of all, there are no rich victims. Rich people believe that they and they alone are responsible for anything in their lives – they are the ones creating their lives, with their thoughts, their beliefs, their choices, their words, their actions. They don't feel like 'life is happening to me.'

They fully accept responsibility for EVERYTHING in their life, good or bad. This means they have control over how much financial success they experience and how their life turns out ultimately. They KNOW it's all down to them – and not dependent on any external forces.

Instead of taking responsibility for what's going on in their lives, poor people choose to play the role of victim.

"Yeah, man. My boss treats me like dirt and only pays me $800 a month!"

"That's nothing, man! MY boss treats me like scum, expects me to work for free, he is doing my wife, I've just had my car stolen, AND I may have testicular cancer!"

Can you imagine having millions in the bank and still hanging with your 'victim' friends trying to upstage them with an even worse problem than they have?

How can you tell if someone is playing the victim?

They blame everything and everyone for what's bad in their life... but never accept responsibility for any of it themselves. They blame the weather, the economy, the government, they blame the stock market, they blame their employer, or they blame their employees.

Or they justify their situation by saying something like, "Money's not really important."

Or they complain constantly.

This is the worst thing you could possibly do! There is a universal law that says, "What you focus on expands!"

When you are complaining you are focusing on what is going WRONG in your life!

You are ensuring that you'll keep getting more of what's wrong. Through the law of attraction, whereby "like attracts like," you are actually attracting "crap" into your life.

What do people get out of being a 'victim'?
