

#Jenny

Finally I get this ebook, thanks for all these I can get now!

---

#Rio

Cool! I'am really happy

---

#Markus Jensen

I did not think that this would work, my best friend showed me this website, and it does! I get my most wanted eBook

---

#Hun Tsu

wtf this great ebook for free?!

---

#Che Salsa

My friends are so mad that they do not know how I have all the high quality ebook which they do not!

---

#Diego Butler

so many fake sites. this is the first one which worked! Many thanks

---

writing a journal article 3/3

- when editor advises decision (even rejection), do write back, be professional, and acknowledge email
- negative reviews are tough to receive; so read them, feel the pain, then make considered decision (in consultation with trusted advisors)
- be careful about understand what decision actually was – e.g. editor will signal if they want paper, even if one (or more) review was harsh
- revise quickly, and resubmit; include cover letter detailing response to reviewer feedback (take all reviews seriously; don't try to dismiss out of hand; but there is an art-form to responding to reviewer comments)
- if accepted, the paper will go into production
- deal with any further requirements (final queries; proofs; contracts; etc) quickly and professionally
- create an open access version of your paper to put on website/in repository before it is finally published
- when article is published, especially if in special issue, please consider thanking the editor (whose contribution is generally unsung)
- send copies of paper/links to it to interested colleagues
- Create an open access (OA) version of your paper through a repository

Download PDF version of :
Writing For Academic Journals